Coleman Boys Attend Rally

A special bus from Coleman, and with cars from Blairmore, Pincher Creek and Coleman, carrying Boy Scouts and Cubs, attended the Jubilee Celebration held in Lethbridge.

With an assembly of about 1200 Boy Scouts, Cubs and leaders from Alberta and Montana, a colorful parade led by flag bearers, sporting the colors began on October 19, at 3 p.m.

As the parade lengthened, an unusual Scout uniform, that of the Boy Scouts of America, passed in review, and to all present, the hope and prayer became one thought, that these boys would some day march in unity with all other boys of every race and creed, in peace.

Hands were placed intermittently throughout the parade and hundreds of people lined Third avenue, the parade route. Turning at Fifth street into Fourth avenue, the boys marched past a saluting base set up at City hall where officials took the salute. The parade broke up at the Civic Centre about 4 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. in the arena, one of the most interesting and colorful displays of Scouting and Cubbing took place with Mr. Ron Vincent, Field Commissioner, as master of ceremonies, introducing the guest speakers and informing the audience of the groups on the floor and their display. The theme of the show was "Putting It Across" and consisted of seven acts:

Act 1—Opening Ceremonies:
1—Parade of Cubs and Scouts—American and Canadian.

2—Parade of Colors.
3—National Anthems.

4—Welcome.
5—Appreciation to Leaders.

6—Withdrawal of Groups and the colors.

Act 2—Land of Cubbing:
1—1st star tests.

2—2nd star tests.
3—Cub Badges.

All of Act 2 is done on the floor at the same time. Each group doing their display in designated areas.

Act 3—Scout Training:
1—Tenderfoot.

2—Second Class.
3—First Class.

4—Queens Scout.
5—Bushman's Thong.

All of Act 3 is done on the floor at the same time, except the Queens Scout and Bushman's Thong, who come in at the last.

Act 4—Boy Scouts of America:
(Ed note: This included a number of displays from a pancake race to ribbon paper twirling, and included camp fire building and many others).

Act 5—Prairie Pioneers:
1—Indians.

2—Explorers.
3—Settlers.

4—N.W.M.P.
5—C.P.R.

Costuming is the big part. Indians, traders, trappers, covered wagons of the pioneers, and the mounties of the Mounties bound together by the C.P.R.

Act 6—Scout Sampling:
1—Summer.

2—Winter.
Both on the floor at the same time in designated areas.

Act 7—Closing Camp-fire:
1—The fire is lit.

2—Scout song.
3—Yell.

4—Cub song.
5—Dedication to Lord Baden-Powell.

6—Taps.
7—Closing.

All Scouts from the camping scene will take part around the camp-fire with Cubs from the Cub rests. Cubs from the Pioneers will hold the trees in the background.

The cavalcade from the Crows Nest Pass started back home with some very tired boys but they will not forget the impressive scenes that they witnessed that night and participated in throughout the day.

Hospital Installs - New Equipment

A new X-ray machine, one of the latest on the market, was recently installed in the Crows Nest Pass hospital.

The new machine, costing $4765, is a diagnostic X-ray machine and is only used to determine the cause of illness and will not be used for a treatment machine.

Mr. V. J. Horej is the X-ray technician in charge of this machine.

School Board To Consider Request On Shop Equipment

Last week's school board meeting was presented with a request for the loan of equipment from the idle wood-working shop.

Mr. Saunders of The Salvation Army, had requested the use of any equipment that may not be in use at the school for training of the youngsters in the Army's hobby shop here in town.

In his letter to the board it was stated that he would be responsible for any damage or repairs needed while being used by the Army. He stated further that "Chief Corsan has informed him that juvenile delinquency had been cut considerably while his hobby shop had been in operation."

These classes are open to all children who wish to attend.

The board felt that this effort was very worthy and that it should be given consideration, inasmuch as there was no instructor for the teaching in the school. To protect the school equipment it was decided to have an inventory and agreement drawn up covering the loan of some of the equipment. With the understanding that it was subject to immediate recall when required.

The request of the Coleman Lions for the rental of the auditorium on November 10 is for the sum of $25 for a hand concert.

Approved was the purchase of a wreath from the Legion for the Remembrance Day ceremony.

It was reported that a theft of a fire extinguisher from the bus had been reported and that the insurance company had paid a proof of loss claim for $16.

The report on hall damage to the school property has been estimated at $2612.91.

Mr. Allen reported that the flu had abated and that only 30 children had been absent from school during the week. He also stated that the Chinook Health Unit were doing a very thorough check of pupils in the lower grades and that they would further expand. This is something that we have needed for years.

Mr. J. Salus and Mr. Owen were instructed to attend the school trustees' convention being held in Calgary this week.

Mr. J. Glendenning Bereaved

Word was received by Mrs. J. Glendenning of the death of her brother, Harry Armstrong, aged 72 years, who passed away in Colonel Mewburn hospital, Edmonton, on Oct. 22. Burial took place on Friday, Oct. 25 in the Rest-lawn cemetery, Edmonton. The late Mr. Armstrong was a veteran of the First World War, serving with the 31st Canadian Infantry Battalion and was well known here among the old timers.

The word Eskimo comes from the language of the Algonquin Indian tribe—means "eaters of raw flesh."

REMEMBRANCE: INTROSPECTIVE

For some hours now, I have been thinking hard thoughts about Remembrance Day. Editorials are supposed to be objective, but how can one be objective about Remembrance, not just the ceremony but the spirit of it? How can one be objective when 104,000 Canadian war dead turn restlessly in their graves because we, the living, have lost the true spirit of Remembrance and are mocking their sacrifice?

Therefore, I would beg your indulgence for these personal observations on Remembrance.

Last November I stood at a war memorial, feeling sick of heart, hypocritical and afraid. We were dangerously close to a third world war—perhaps the last. Even romantically, most of the nations involved had not recovered from the last war. Yet there was much brave talk many itchy trigger-fingers and an exceedingly grave situation.

Beyond the morning coats, the uniforms, the wreaths and the monument, I saw another procession of men. I saw men like my father at a place called Passchendaele. I've made a point of learning to spell that name because two square miles of land cost us 16,404 casualties there. And there were other places which don't even have a name, like the 3,000 yards where Canada suffered 24,029 casualties in moving some forgotten front 4,000 yards. That works out to more than six casualties a yard.

I wondered how they were responding to the nation's two-minute tribute.

After Dieppe, in 1942, I talked to a life-long friend who led a platoon in the assault. Within minutes of hitting the beach, he was cut down and his platoon almost completely wiped out. He was unconscious when somebody dragged him to a boat. After months in a hospital, his speech was still labored and he suffered from amnesia. But he was one of the lucky ones. They left 3,369 of their 5,000-man force on that beach.

The engagement at Dieppe never did make much sense. But last November, in the shadow of a third war, it became as meaningless as the storming of a castle in feudal times.

Beyond the monument, I saw another life-long friend. He had sat, impatiently in England for four years. He finally went into action on D-Day, and was killed on D-Day plus two.

Above the sombre clouds which hung over the stillness of a nation remembering, I saw the immortal figures of the bomber crews. With each duck they went aloft to challenge the mystery and terror of the infinite night. History has recorded what they did. But history will never record the stunned expressions on their tired faces as they returned from an eight-hour raid. History will never catch the look in the eyes of exhausted men at briefing; eyes which tried not to notice the absence of friends and tried to forget the glow from wreckage which marked the path of fallen bombers.

YOUTH'S SACRIFICE

Then the long roll call of the dead rang in my ears. As the faces returned, I was shocked at their extreme youth. Every year they get younger. They were not men, not as years are measured. In ten brief years, my eight-year-old son will be the age of many of them.

What did they know about reasons for dying? Most of them never had an opportunity to learn why they were living. Yet they died casting one lingering thought homeward, desperately believing in the long hope that the reason lay somewhere back in Canada. Even if, in moments of bitterness, they blamed the war on the failure of the preceding generation, hope that the future would be better, died hard.

Those who lived until the spring of 1945 saw that hope being embalmied. But within a few months they were civilians. And somehow it didn't matter. They were able to shove their sense of frustration and guilt further back into the recesses of their minds. They grew older, they grew selfish and they grew afraid. I am one of them, one of the little men who now stand before the monuments to big men. We place a wreath and try to hide our guilt in a noble, solemn bearing. Unable to meet their eyes, we try to rationalize and call as witness our gross national interest. It's the highest in our history. Is this not a worthy fruit of your sacrifice, we ask? Beyond this, we have nothing to offer. We have produced little with the peace which they bought with their lives.

Few of us have the opportunity to directly influence world events. But who among us has matched the courage of our war dead in our daily lives? It is certainly not the 30 per cent of Canadians who did not vote in the recent federal election. Yet the privilege of voting was won anew by 104,000 dead Canadians. Before the election, a civil servant told me he was going to vote for a certain party because it would mean an increase in salary. This was his sole reason for backing that particular party. The man was a veteran and will probably stand at a Cenotaph on November 11th.

OUR COMPROMISE

We derive a smug satisfaction in the belief that we are a moral nation. Yet we sell arms to two opposing sides in a conflict. The fact that the quantities were not great has nothing to do with our moral principles. It simply is an indication that we didn't have much to sell.

We have accepted the term "political suicide" as a natural obstacle to doing what one believes is right. Although a course of action may be the right one, we condone its not being taken because it will meet with some unpopularity. Is this not a manifestation of personal and group selfishness? Regardless of political party; regardless of the level of government; is not this pre-acceptance of loathsome compromises eating at the very fabric of what we are supposed to be grateful for at Remembrance ceremonies?

The dead made no compromises.

Is there less prejudice today than there was in 1939? Or have we merely learned to live with it? Is a Jew accepted as an individual as he was in action? Or has he become a Jew, a French-Canadian or a "maudit Anglaise" again?

It is indeed difficult to be objective about the spirit of Remembrance.

Hansell Asks Government For Data On Coal Industry 'Pass Field'

Although no known definite action has been taken it is interesting to note in Hansard, reporting the routine proceedings and Orders of the Day in the House of Commons sitting in Ottawa, that the Rev. G. Hansell, M.P., for the Macleod constituency, has brought in a number of questions pertaining to the Crows Nest Pass and the Macleod constituency and the coal mining conditions in the area.

On October 16, Mr. Hansell asked the House the following questions: 1. Are there facilities available at any of the Vancouver harbors for the loading of coal for export on ocean going vessels? 2. If so, what facilities are there? 3. If not, what steps are being taken to secure adequate loading facilities?

Mr. Hansell, in the interests of the Crows Nest Pass, also asked: 1. Did the Department of Defence Production contract with a Toronto firm during August for the purchase of coal? 2. If so, what was the name of the firm? 3. Were public tenders called for? If so, what firms submitted tenders? 4. What specifications of coal were called for? 5. Was this coal to be secured from Canadian coal mines? 6. What was the amount of the contract? 7. What tonnage of coal was called for?

Mr. Hansell also asked: 1. Did the Department of Defence Production contract with a Montreal firm during August for the purchase of coal? 2. If so, what was the name of the firm? 3. Were public tenders called for? If so, what firms submitted tenders? 4. What specifications of coal were called for? 5. Was this coal to be secured from Canadian coal mines? 6. What was the amount of the contract? 7. What tonnage of coal was called for?

In the number seven copy of Votes and Proceedings of the House of Commons of Canada, October 28 issue, Hansard reports "Mr. Hansell asked—1. Did the government contract with the Canada Coal Company Ltd. of Toronto for coal during September of this year? 2. If so, what was the amount of this order, what tonnage of coal was called for and was this coal to be secured from Canadian mines? Later he asked—1. Has the government of Canada negotiated with any persons, firm or corporation during the past year for the installation of a thermal power plant at Blairmore, Alberta, or any other community in the Alberta section of the Crows Nest Pass? 2. If so, with whom were negotiations carried on and with what results in each case?

He also asked for a copy of all correspondence, telegrams and other documents exchanged between the government, Dominion Coal Board and any other government branch, and any person, firm or corporation, over the past two years in respect to any possible increase in subventions for the movement of coal from the Crows Nest Pass area to any other part of Canada or foreign country; also he asked for a copy of all correspondence, telegrams, and other documents exchanged during the past year, between the government, the Dominion Coal Board or any other government branch and any person, firm or corporation in respect to any possible sale and export of coal to Japan.

Coal-Fired Industries Seen as Main Hope Of Dwinding Mines

Calgary (cp) — The gas and oil discoveries that made Alberta one of the richest provinces in Canada had a different impact on the coal mining industry.

Now the hope of the Alberta coal miner is in such developments as Canadian Utilities' $7,000,000 coal-fired plant for production of domestic, commercial and industrial electricity in central Alberta. It uses 275 tons daily.

"The future of coal depends on the growth of power plants," says J. A. Brunett, managing director of West Canadian Collieries Limited, of Blairmore. "High-level subventions on coal movement aren't the answer — there aren't enough places to move it."

Calgary Power, now using gas as its steam plant at Lake Wabamun, plans to switch to coal within five years because nearby a strip mine with more than 50,000,000 tons of coal lies idle.

At Estevan, Sask., the Saskatchewan Power Corporation is building two $40,000,000 steam generating stations. Officials estimate the plants will use 18,000,000 tons of Alberta lignite coal in the next 10 years.

Coal men feel their industry will grow again as thermal power develops in western Canada. Although 52 mines closed in 1956 and 15 were abandoned, they believe a rosier decade may lie ahead.

The coal-mining industry in former years was exceeded in value in Alberta only by agriculture. Alberta once had more than 10,000 mines producing half of Canada's total coal output.

But natural gas cut the domestic market for coal to practically nothing, and as the railways switched to diesel locomotives their need for coal diminished and the industry sagged.

In 1949 the record production year for Alberta, 8,616,000 tons of coal valued at $44,541,000 were mined. The output dropped last year to a 30-year low when production of 4,329,000 tons was valued at $23,283,000.

Coal payrolls amounted to $24,000,000 in 1950. Six years later they had dropped to $11,000,000.

The effect was severe on dozens of mining towns. As small independent operators began to close down, young miners moved out while they could.

Mine operators modernized their collieries to cut overhead costs. This also cut employment, and today only 3500 coal miners are working in the province. Few of them work a full week.

Now the steam power plants seem to offer new hope.

Guest 'Zero 1960'

World War II Polish underground statesman and resistance leader, Stefan Korboński, now in the U. S. as chairman of the Polish delegation to the Assembly of Captive European Nations will be interviewed by TV commentator Kevin Kennedy on "Zero - 1960" the Hour of Our Lady of Fatima program, Saturday, October 28 (last program) from 7 to 7:30 p.m. on CILH-TV channel 7 in Lethbridge.

Mr. Korboński will discuss the U. S. foreign relations policy for occupied nations that formerly were independent states, the present position of Poland and the future of the Russian people.

Dr. Maurice Leahy, author, editor and international lecturer, will be interviewed by Mr. Rev. Msgr. Harold V. Colgan, founder of the Blue Army and pastor of St. Mary's R. C. Church, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dr. Leahy is founder and president of the Oriol Society in New York City, composer of famous international Catholic scholars and lecturers who present a series of lectures on topics relating to the dangers of atheistic Communism.

Dr. Leahy will refer in the program to the girl of 20 who was hanged in Hungary "because she felt her nation should be free."

The "Zero - 1960" program now being telecast on U. S. and Canadian stations, is presented each week on behalf of a prayer-for-peace international movement of the Blue Army of Our Lady of Fatima, a religious organization—dedicated to bringing about the conversion of Soviet Communism.

The Blue Army has a 15,000,000 world-wide membership, 5,300,000 in the United States.

Voluntary contributions from the members defray the production and broadcast costs of the television program.

Coleman Couple Are United In Marriage

A very pretty wedding took place in the St. Paul's United Church on Saturday, November 2nd, when the marriage vows were exchanged by Mae, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hammer and Nestor, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson.

Rev. R. MacAuley officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. J. Owen was organist. Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in a white net over satin gown, ballerina-length. The bouffant skirt featured net-ribbles caught up with satin velvet roses. It was topped with a lace bolero with lily point sleeves. The illusion net veil cascaded from a plated sequin- and pearl-trimmed headpiece.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and red roses. She wore pearls and earrings.

Mrs. R. Franz, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, chose a blue net over taffeta waltz-length gown. The skirt featured rows of blue-satin cording. It was topped with a blue silver flowered bolero. Her chapel veil was a matching blue and was caught up with a ruffled pearl- and sequin-studded headband. Her bouquet was a Colonial one of pink and white carnations and satin ribbon.

Mrs. P. Pucko, sister of the bride as bridesmaid, chose a strapless net over taffeta yellow gown of ballerina-length. The full skirt had yellow net ruffles and was topped with a yellow net bolero. Her chapel veil in matching color misted from a coronet studded with sequins and pearls. She carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. M. Bessing of Edmononton, as the other bridesmaid, wore an aqua colored net over taffeta waltz-length gown. The bouffant skirt featured flower-figured medallions. The bolero and bolero were of a matching flowered taffeta.

Her aqua chapel veil cascaded from a ruffled sequin- and pearl-trimmed headpiece. Her bouquet was also a Colonial one of pink and white carnations.

Two little flower girls, nieces of the bride, Brenda Harbut, wore a knee-length frock of pink flowered organza over ermines. She wore a pink satin pleated headpiece and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Peggy Hammer wore a yellow figured organza knee-length frock over matching ermines. Her matching headpiece was also of yellow pleated satin. Her bouquet was also of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Fred Johnson and Mr. Fred Pucko ushered the guests.

Best man was Dewey Johnson, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Art Johnson and Frank Vico.

In the evening a reception was held in the 18th hall which was decorated with white streamers and wedding bells. A dance followed with the Jumbo Arcadians supplying the music. Mrs. F. Pucko was in charge of the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose silver threaded midnight blue frock and white accessories. She wore a pink and white carnation corsage.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to be spent in Great Falls, Mont., Spokane, Wash., and other United States points.

For travelling she chose a blue checked suit with a box jacket and white accessories.

On their return they will reside in Halmere.

First Coleman Cub Pack News

(Column by Kenneth Murdoch)

On Wednesday night we had a Hallo'een Party that took the form of a jungle of scares. First we were taken one by one into the hall which was in complete darkness. In the hall we had to go into mother wolf's den where we were a "bone".

Leaving mother wolf's den we had to swing through the "tree tops" on our way to Shar Khan the tiger's den. When we went through this den we were met by a ferocious wild beast (Kennedy's dog). Then the Cub Master made us sit in a circle and passed around the parts of some of the jungle animals—tee h. liver, hair, etc.

When this was finished we played games and ate.

To Attend Semi-Annual Circuit Assembly

"Nineteen residents of the Crow's Nest Pass will be travelling to Lethbridge this weekend to attend the semi-annual 'circuit assembly' of Jehovah's Witnesses," said Walter Krish, presiding minister of the Coleman congregation. "A very constructive program has been arranged designed to build up Christians in their ministerial activity. The program will be presented in the Hamilton Junior High School for three days, the 8th, 9th, and 10th of Nov."

"Five hundred delegates are expected to attend, coming from the Southern Alberta points of Faber, Vulcan, Fort Macleod, High River, Black Diamond, Vauxhall and Turin. The assembly is held to build up the spirit of Christian love and co-operation in carrying on the preaching activities of the organization," added Mr. Krish.

The theme chosen for the assembly is "Qualified to Teach". Guest speaker for the occasion is Mr. A. F. Danley, supervisor of the ministerial activities for Jehovah's Witnesses in Southern Alberta and B.C. His main address will be delivered on Sunday at 3 p.m. His timely topic for this occasion is "What Are the Prospects for Lasting Peace?"

Travel information is available at the province of Alberta Tourist Information Bureau near Fort Macleod for visitors entering the province from all parts of entry in the south.

New Matron at C. N. P. Hospital

Miss Marie Berze, R.N., nurse at the Crow's Nest Pass Municipal Hospital, has accepted the position as Matron following the resignation of Mrs. Agnes Balog, which is effective December 1. The Board regretted receiving the resignation of Mrs. Balog, but was confident that Miss Berze is well qualified to fill the vacancy.

people compete in the oil business

Did you know there are more than 10,000 people engaged in the search for oil in Canada? We know it, because we run into plenty of them each time we try to lease promising oil lands.

Did you know there are hundreds of skilled chemists and engineers in Canada's 42 refineries? We know it, because our own technical people have to work hard to stay ahead of the others in producing better products at lower cost.

Did you know Canada's oil companies employ thousands of salesmen to market their products? We know it, because every day our own sales people are competing with salesmen from other companies.

Canada's hundreds of oil companies wage vigorous competition. The result is increased efficiency, and benefits to the consumer.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

The Department of Agriculture of the Government of Alberta maintains a Province-wide Extension Service which is constantly concerned in bringing information to farm families and assisting them to apply it.

District Agriculturalists and District Home Economists, who comprise the field staff, are strategically located at 45 centers throughout the Province. These highly qualified workers provide direct, friendly assistance to farm people in planning their operations so that they may achieve the maximum in profit and satisfaction from their efforts. This is not done by arbitrarily telling them what they should do, but rather by bringing to them basic and scientific information and encouraging them to apply it in reaching better decisions.

Some farm families need only to be told of the latest research developments, while in others there is a need to consider a more or less complete revision of their operations.

The principal methods used are:

1. Supervision by field staff of the organization and operation of 4-H Clubs.
2. Provision of information by field staff with respect to specific problems, including better uses and seed.
3. Provision of general information through the medium of short courses, radio, press, etc.
4. Provision of specialists to assist farm families with more complicated problems.
5. Encouragement to farm families to solve their own problems by group discussion, with Extension workers present to provide information.

The Alberta Department has the highest ratio in Canada of Home Economists to number of occupied farms and was the first to have a specialist in home designing. The average number of occupied farms per District Agriculturalist is about 1900, and per District Home Economist about 3500.

PROVINCIAL SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE AND HOME ECONOMICS

The Schools of Agriculture and Home Economics provide practical training to young men and women who intend to make careers in modern farming and homemaking. Each school consists of modern dormitories, class rooms, laboratories, shops and barns. A farm is operated in conjunction with each school to provide practical instruction.

Legion Stage Hallowe'en Party

Thursday evening members of the Canadian Legion got into the spirit of Hallowe'en when several members dressed up in fancy costumes and really provided some real laughs.

Bearded ladies, cowboys, Spanish dancers, tambourine ladies and many others kept everyone guessing.

Entertainment and music was provided by Mrs. J. Duncan on the piano, Fred Beddington, saxophone, and Bill Goodwin on the trumpet. Lively singing was enjoyed by a well packed club.

Mr. Harry Jepson and Mr. G. Hunter of Bellevue, acted as costume judges. They had a hard time picking winners and had the costumed parties march around the club-rooms several times and finally picked the winners to be:

Most original - Mrs. J. Kinnear, Jr.
Best dressed lady, Mrs. F. Lenze and Mrs. R. Korner.
Funniest, Mrs. M. Joseph and Mrs. R. Rinaldi.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary to end an enjoyable evening.

Heavy traffic, rain, fog, reduced construction call for increased speed on the highway. Speed kills. Slow down—and live.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Margaret Connell, who passed away on November 9th, 1955.

I miss you when the morning dawns,
I miss you when the night returns,
I miss you Margaret I always will,
But in my heart you are with me still,
Always together in memory lane,
Till God in his time unites us again.
Ever remembered by your loving husband, Peter Connell.

True was her heart, her actions were kind,
Her life was a pattern to those left behind,
A beautiful soul in a garden of rest,
It's true what they say, God chooses the best.

Ever remembered by her daughter Elizabeth and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bowman, and grandson, Edward Bowman.

A little tribute true and tender,
Just to show we still remember.

Ever remembered by her grand-son, Peter and Mary Bowman, Estevan, Sask.

All things move together for the purpose planned,
And behind the wording is a mind controlling,
And a force directing, 'tis our Fathers hand,
Her life a treasured memory.
Ever remembered by her grand son Robert and Judy Bowman.
